

ABSTRACT

[0079] A router system includes a group of virtual routers that share at least one resource. The router system further includes a resource allocator that controls access to the at least one resource by the virtual routers.